Jays suffered its first defeat of the season in a high-scoring thriller. An active Jays batting squad counted for 11 runs, even against the 10 strikeouts delivered by Tigers' Brian Lipp and David Leverette.

Fine catches by Lipp and Aaron Greer combined with RBIs by Preston White and a home run by Matt Rutherford set the scene for Chris Moss' game-winning single, which drove in two Tigers runners in the final inning. Rutherford, trading his bat for the mound, was credited with the save.

Fielding by Yankees' Gerrard Purcell, John Borg, Kris Noonan, and Errol Smith backed up Paul DiMarco's attempt to fire Yankee offensive with his three RBIs, but Tigers took Yankees with another team effort.

Stops by Trevor McBain, Jason McNeil, and Preston White characterized Tiger defence. Adam Szlachta's RBI and Jason Jack's pair of stolen bases were examples of the Tiger offense.

Blake Leavitt Expos 19
Mike Reed Angels 8
Classic fielding by Brendan Alexa, Andre Borger, and Joel Higgins couldn't hold the Expos on Thursday. Hitting by Alexa, Borger, Devin Legate, and David Assenheim - in addition to Scott Ellis' homer - accounted for eight runs, but Angels had to give up 19 to Expos.

On Mets' side, pitcher Nils Varga whiffed three for a quick inning, and Josh Osborne snagged a fly ball.
