

Babysitter training program offered in Halton

Does your organization offer a babysitter training program? If it does, you may be interested in the new handbook and course developed by the Institute for the Prevention of Child Abuse. The package is available through the Halton Child Abuse Council. Why target babysitters? "Because many teens learn about children and child-care through their experience as babysitters" explains

Council member Rena Smith. As well as making this package available through both guides for the course leader and handbooks for the students, the Council is encouraging local Babysitter Training Programs' to incorporate a lesson on child abuse. Speakers from local organizations will be available to discuss abuse issues during the babysitting classes, and the Council will act as a resource to your organization. A meeting is planned to introduce and explain the package and to answer any questions. For further information contact Rena Smith at 878-0121 or Pat Coulman at 827-2151.
