

Mischievous fun

Even best friends can get a little mischievous with each other when summer gets hot enough. Here, Karen Connolly, (at left), 8, attempts to persuade pal Marissa Otley, 8, to give up her idea of splashing her Saturday afternoon at Cedarvale Park in Georgetown. (Herald photo)

Library summer program

With grace, concentration, and a lot of humor mixed in, Freddy Wonder displays his juggling talent to children and parents during his travelling Fred Show held at the Georgetown Public Library in the Cultural Centre Thursday morning. Freddy combined music, comedy, juggling, and magic to captivate viewers of his Fred Show, which helped kick off summer programs at the library. (Herald photo)

Hospital donation

In memory of their sorority sister, Kay Quinn, members of the Xi Delta Beta Women's Sorority Group of Georgetown donated this print to the Georgetown and District Memorial Hospital Friday morning. On hand for the presentation were (front row, left to right) Shirley Deaville, the artist; Joison Helmer, past president of the sorority; Marlene Quackenbush, assistant executive director

for patient care at the hospital; Earldine Robinson, nurse manager of obstetrics (where the print will hang); Carol Parker, chairperson of service for Xi Delta; (back row, left to right) Donna Waller, Susan Hiltz, Brenda McMurray, Carol Marshall, Susan Schmeier, Joanne McNichol and Susan Worton. (Herald photo)

Tuggin' it out at Sonward Ho!

Amy Boileau gets some help from her friends in the Pinto group (4-5 yrs.). Sonward Ho is in full swing at Georgetown Alliance Church. All kids ages 4-10 can come on out for some rompin' stompin' fun

Sundays, 10-12:15 p.m. For more information on the Sonward Ho Summer Program, telephone 873-0249. (Photo submitted)

"Good work, Daddy"

Kyle McFadyen teaches dad Gary the finer points of painting at the Georgetown Parent-Child Centre. "Dad's Day" was held June 8. (Photo submitted)