

Gemini Glass and Mirror reflects all tastes

Looking for a mirror or piece of glass furniture that reflects your artistic taste and need for quality? Then David Rennie, 24, of Gemini Glass and Mirror is the one to call.

Located in Georgetown, Mr. Rennie opened Gemini Glass and Mirror about three months ago with help from the Royal Bank in Georgetown. He received his business license, a truck, built an A-Frame, and with some advertising in the Herald, has since done mirror and glass work in Halton and surrounding areas.

For more than a year Mr. Rennie had aspired to start his own business. For the past three years he had worked for a large mirror and glass manufacturing in Brampton: building mirror doors and cutting glass for one year and head cutter of all glass and mirror orders for the other two years.

During these years, he spent his spare time creating artful and decorative mirrors and gained knowledge of window installations and mirror wall installations by assisting companies in the industry.

Mr. Rennie takes on a number of different glass and mirror orders: from mirror closet doors and window frame mirrors to all kinds of glass furniture. He said that because he had been doing this work in his spare time for so long that opening his own business was just a matter of taking it one step further. He explained that several businesses in the industry have closed because of the recession.

"Business has been a little slower than I had expected," stated Mr. Rennie. "However things should pick up once the economy starts to improve, and more people in the community learn about my business." He said that he is able to give his customers lower prices than other glass or mirror companies because of his lack of expenses. While he has space in town to create his products, he doesn't have a store front and because it is a one man job business he has no salaries to pay out. Those interested in purchasing work from Gemini Glass and Mirror can call Mr. Rennie at (416) 873-1230.

David Rennie has donated several mirrors and mirrored Kleenex box holders to a benefit for a citizen of Georgetown who is suffering from diabetes. He also donated two flower decorative mirrors, a dove mirror and two smaller types to the Halton Hills bike-a-thon for the mentally handicapped.

He explained that he chose the name "Gemini" Glass and Mirror because the symbol of the two brothers side by side seemed to be similar to a reflection of a mirror.

Mr. Rennie said he has come to appreciate the strength and quality of Georgetown and if things go according to plan, he hopes to hire two people within a year.

First Anniversary celebration

To celebrate their first year of business in Acton, staff at Captial Ford on Main St. hired Brenda Snow from Up, UP and Away in Georgetown to hand out balloons to customers and residents of the community. But first, she had to give sales manager

Georgetown resident David Rennie displays many of his artistic creations, made of either glass or mirror, throughout his home, which doubles as a showplace for interested customers. Mr. Rennie owns a one-man business, Gemini Glass and Mirror, which opened in the area three months ago. He makes a variety of mirrors and pieces of glass furniture sold in Halton Region and surrounding areas. (Herald photo)
