Canadian Trivia

In 1989, The Royal Canadian Mint made over 216 million pennies. But that's nothing compared to production of pennies the previous year - over one billion.

Canadians are drinking 'lite' in more ways than one. In 1967 the average Canadian drank 66 litres of whole milk, but only 21 litres of two percent. Twenty years later we were drinking 65 litres of two percent, and only 28 litres of homogenized.

Many think the world's fastest animal is the African cheetah. The cheetah may be faster in short sprints, but over the long haul the ribbon goes to the pronghorn antelope of our prairie grasslands. One has been clocked passing a car at 61-miles-per-hour.

THE ANTEATER CALLED TRUMPET A 'PEANUT BRAIN' AND MOVED ON. "HE INSULTED ME AGAIN." THOUGHT TRUMPET "BUT WHAT'S A PEANUT?"

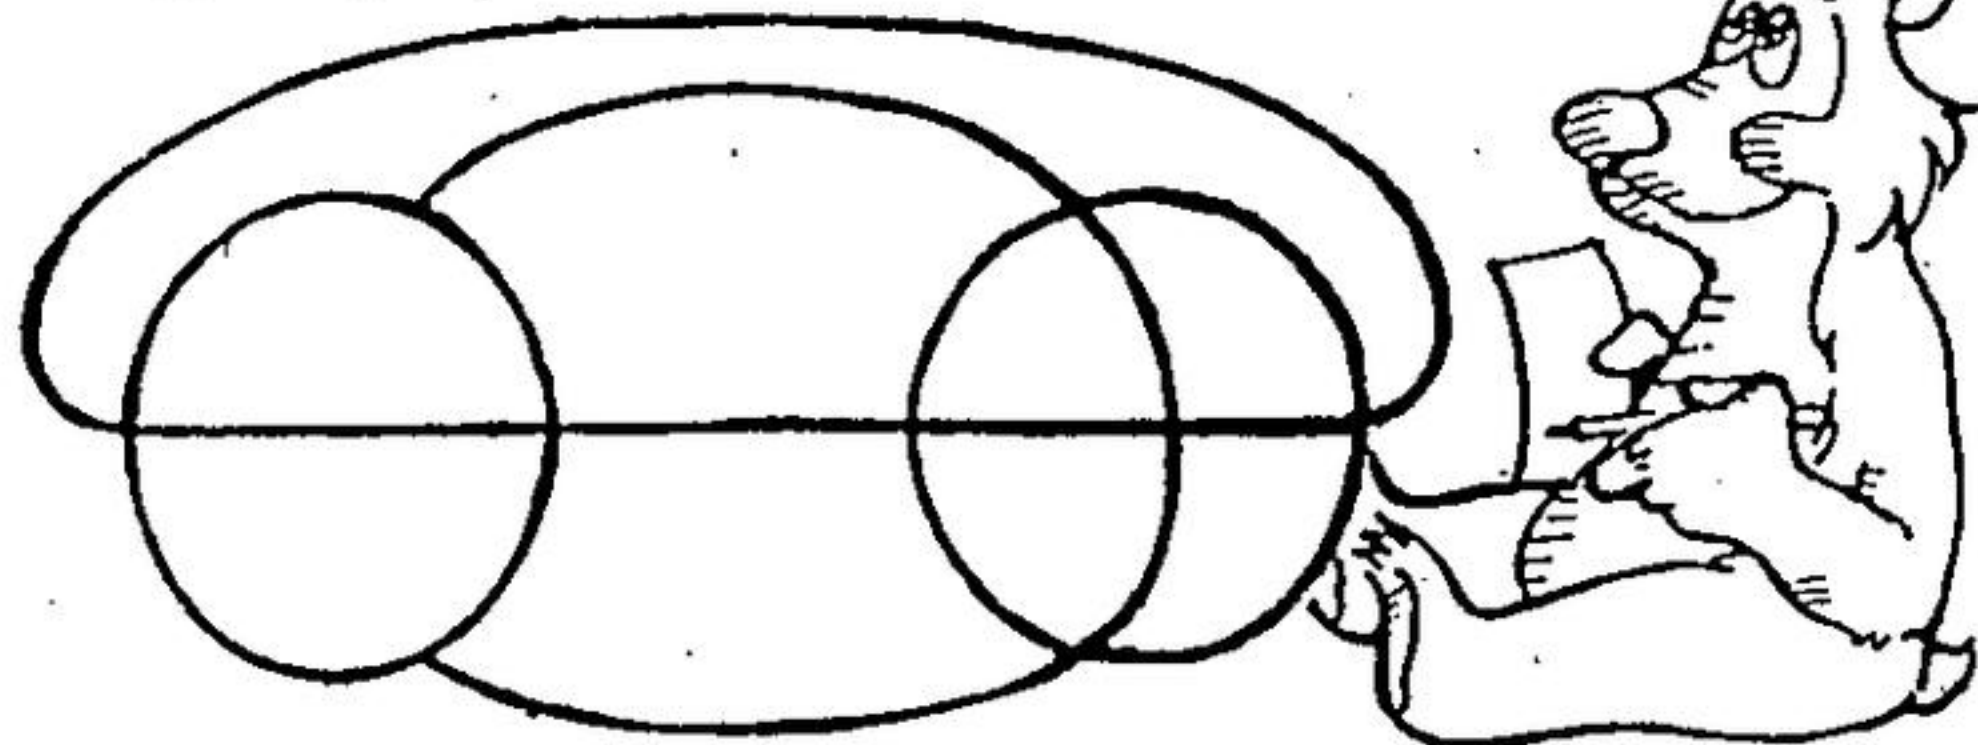

LATER THAT DAY, GERALDEEN MET THE SAME ANTEATER. "HI, I HAVEN'T SEEN YOU BEFORE. HOW ARE YOU?" SHE SAID TO HIM SWEETLY. "BEAT IT, TALL N' GOOFY! YOU'RE SCARING THE ANTS AWAY!" HE REPLIED.

"WELL...EXCUSE ME." SAID GERALDEEN.
