

Globe to present a killer musical

By DANIELLE MORRIS
Globe Productions

Assassins is just around the corner and Georgetown Globe Musical Productions would like to invite you to this not-so-average musical.

It's a Stephen Sondheim original that will take you on a ride of emotional struggle between good and evil, and will leave you wanting more. Stratford Shakespearean Festival recently revived this dark musical and brilliantly portrayed a part of history we sometimes overlook. History enthusiasts, will appreciate the solid facts and emotional struggles that is portrayed throughout this production. The lovers of theatre will appreciate the difficulty and technicality of the music.

Fusing these two aspects together, it takes you on a trip inside the minds of deranged and bitter souls through humor, pain, and tears. By the end, you come to understand why these assassins did or attempted to do, no matter the cost or consequences.

Assassins examines the lives and motivations of the successful and unsuccessful assassins of U.S.

Presidents. From the better known exploits of John Wilkes Booth to some of the lesser-knowns, the show holds a microscope to the notion of the American Dream and how twisted its meaning can become in the wrong hands.

Assassins has strong content and language, and should only be viewed by a mature audience.

The musical is set to run February 5, 6, 11, 12, 13 at 8 p.m. and February 7 at 2 p.m., at the St. Paul's Parish Hall, Norval. Contact the JET Box Office for tickets: 905-877-3700 or online at www.halton-hills.ca/theatre.

Globe presents Assassins— this is unusual musical, opening Friday at St. Paul's Church Hall in Norval. Preparing for their roles are Paul Stodolny as the Balladeer; Andy Ingram as John Wilkes Booth; Cecily Restivo as Squeaky Fromme; Dan Kelley as Samuel Byck and Aaron Scarlett as John Hinckley.
