While exploring in the garden, try setting your watch to the analematic sundial, one of only seven in North America, and learn more about the famous author and her time in Norval at the interpretive gazebo. See the website for more information:

The Lucy Maud Montgomery Garden in the Village of Norval

Acton also has its share of hidden treasures all lovingly maintained by the Acton Horticultural Society. To find the Max McSween Garden from Fairy Lake, make your way along the Rotary Park Pathway to the west of the Public Library. Don't miss the Laura Dietrich Memory Garden beside the creek at the library.

So keep dreaming... reality is just around the corner!
