PEOPLE IN BUSINESS

March 23rd

EVAN CANNING

Evan Canning

Don't let the name deceive you: Canning Steering Specialties does more than just take care of steering problems in motor vehicles. The business, located at 33 Armstrong Avenue in Georgetown, also repairs and diagnoses brakes, suspension, alignment, wheel balancing, general maintenance repairs and seasonal checkups.

For 24 years, the business was known as McEachern Steering, but the name changed over the summer when Evan Canning bought it from a relative.

"It's the same business with a new name," says Evan, who has lived in Halton Hills for 10 years and has eight years of experience working in a local car shop.

The automotive technicians at Canning take their time with each vehicle in order to get to the bottom of the problem. "We see a lot of problems that other shops don't see," Evan says. "A lot of people have cars that they can't get the shimmy or shake out of. We have the ability to help out customers who have been everywhere and tried everything."

Fixing the problems and helping his clients is the most rewarding part of the job for Evan.

"I like interacting with my customers and meeting new people," Evan says. "Every day is different and every day brings new challenges."

Gaudeamus Choirs to represent community at upcoming festivals

The Gaudeamus Choirs will be representing Halton Hills at two children's choir festivals this spring.

The choir received an invitation in the fall from the Bach Children's Chorus— company in residence at the Toronto Centre of the Performing Arts—to attend a treble choir festival called Let the Children Sing on Saturday, March 27.

They will participate in this festival with 10 other children's choirs from the GTA, including the Toronto Children's Chorus, Guelph Youth Singers, Oakville Children's Choir, and Hamilton Children's Choir. The singers will spend a day in workshops and mass choir rehearsals, then perform in a concert with the renowned Jean Ashworth Bartle conducting.

Following that event, as the result of a second invitation, the Boys Choir of the Gaudeamus groups will head down to Oakville on Saturday, April 17 to participate in Let the Boys Sing, a festival hosted by the boy choir of the Oakville Children's Choir. The boys will participate alongside the boy choir from the St. Michael's Choir School in Toronto, as well as the Amabile Boys Choir from London, and boys from other GTA choirs. The festival will feature guest conductor Michael Larkin from Ottawa, and performing in the final concert will be world renowned Russell Braun of Halton Hills as guest soloist.

Cameron Charrett, Matea Klassen, and Olivia Krul are three members of the Gaudeamus Choirs of Halton Hills that will be participating in upcoming music festivals.

The Gaudeamus Choirs are currently accepting new members. Parents of children who love to sing are encouraged to contact the conductor, Diane Murray-Charrett at 416-895-2697, or gaudeamus@cogeco.ca

OH, TO BE CANADIAN EH!

CONGRATULATIONS

*To all of our wonderful athletes from sea to sea,
you have brought us closer together as a country.
You have united us like never before!
Your determination, compassion, patriotism and humbleness show what being a Canadian is all about!
Through tears of joy and pride,
I feel honoured to be a Canadian in the greatest country in the world.*
