

Daffodil days begin this week

Longtime Acton Branch Canadian Cancer Society volunteers Liz Bailey (left) and Cathy Gerrow show off a sample of the daffodils volunteers will be selling during their Daffodil Campaign, Thursday through Saturday this week. Sales to the public will be held inside Sobey's by the pharmacy, from 4 to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. In addition, the Acton Branch also canvasses businesses to sell daffodils to employees. Daffodils will be selling for $7 a single bunch, or two bunches for $12.

Man faces charges after teen threatened

A Georgetown man is facing charges after an incident on Mountainview Rd. S. about 2:50 a.m. Saturday.

Halton Police say a 17-year-old male was walking on Mountainview Rd. at that time when he encountered a man with a crowbar. There was a verbal altercation and the man with the crowbar threatened to use it on the teen.

The 17-year-old fled the area but a short time later the youth met some friends on Mountainview Rd. where he again encountered the man with the crowbar, and called police.

Police arrived and shortly afterward arrested the man with the crowbar.

Charged with assault with a weapon, possession of a weapon for a dangerous purpose, and uttering threats to cause bodily harm is Matthew Michaud, 20.

An Acton man was charged in connection with an incident outside of George's Leather Town Tavern Sunday about 10:15 p.m.

Police say there was an altercation involving a number of intoxicated people. A window in a taxicab was smashed during the altercation. No one was injured.

Charged with mischief under $5,000 is Piotr Deptula, 37.

Three tires were slashed on a vehicle parked in a driveway on Guelph St. sometime late Thursday or early Friday.

Beauty performer misidentified

In the March 16 review of Georgetown Globe Musical Productions Youth Company performance of Beauty and the Beast, Ben Coles, who played the part of Cogsworth, was incorrectly identified.
