

Atlantis Athletics

Brian Bahm doesn't just sell gym memberships, he sells service, education and results. Brian and his family own Atlantis Athletics, a 24-hour co-ed fitness centre located at the corner of Guelph Street and Mountainview Road in Georgetown.

The full-service, all ages fitness facility specializes in nutrition and personal training. With 20 staff members and state-of-the-art cardio and weight equipment, Atlantis Athletics is serious about helping you achieve your health and fitness goals in a non-intimidating, non-invasive atmosphere where you are not just a number.

More than 25 group fitness classes are offered each week for all age groups and fitness levels. Classes include yoga, pilates, spinning, body sculpt, zumba and many more, and daycare is available during class times. If you're in the mood for a treat after a satisfying workout, there is a juice bar onsite that makes 100 per cent real fruit smoothies.

Brian is a longtime resident of Halton Hills and a very active member of the community. In addition to his own volunteer work, Brian and the Atlantis Athletics family have sponsored a variety of sports teams, organizations and charities over the years.

"I like helping people out and changing their lives," Brian says. "I invite members of the community to stop by the facility any time for a personalized tour."

Georgetown's Favourite Butcher & Deli

Pat Commisso's reputation is "at steak." Pat is the owner and operator of Pat's Prime Cuts and Deli, a butcher shop that sells quality meats and deli goods.

"I want to supply my customers with the healthiest and safest food possible," says Pat, who opened the shop five years ago. "I only sell Canadian products because Canada's got the best and safest food in the world."

Customers can find any type of meat from Kobe steaks to nitrate-free deli meats at the cheery Georgetown South shop. Pat is meat cutter by trade and does all the work himself on the premises. He learned the trade at his family's grocery stores in northern Ontario and brought all of those skills with him when he moved to Halton Hills.

"The people here have been very good to me and very welcoming," Pat says. "It reminds me of my hometown: the people are great and the town is safe. I hope to be part of the community and be of service to everyone in the community."

"I love getting up every morning and coming to work in my little shop," he adds. "I like it when people come up to me and say, 'Pat, that was the best steak I've ever eaten in my life.'"

Don't forget to order your Easter Turkeys and Hams!

BOS Lift Truck Service Ltd.

Jim Hoekstra's job has put him in touch with a wide variety of different people over the years.

Hoekstra owns and operates Bos Lift Truck Service, a local company that sells, services and rents out warehouse equipment and heavy machinery like forklifts, front-end loaders and attachments. The business also sells a very in-demand exhaust system that has nearly zero emissions. There are also four mechanics on staff that travel around to service the equipment at various factories and businesses in the area.

Bos Lift Truck Service has been in business since 1982. Hoekstra took over in 2000 and has continued the company's tradition of excellence. Thanks to the internet, customers come from far and wide to work with Bos Lift Truck Service.

"With the internet, you really get out there and people don't care where you're from," Jim says. "I get to live in the town I choose to live in, the town I was born and raised in."

Bos Lift Truck Service is located at 332 Guelph Street in Georgetown. For more information, call 905-877-2525.

Hyland's on Park

From the moment he got his first Hot Wheels car, Greg Hyland was hooked on automobiles. Now the Georgetown native is the proud owner and operator of Hyland's on Park, a local body shop that offers detailing, restoration of classic and modern cars and reconditioning of lease returns and used cars.

"When I was a kid, I'd see old cars driving by and I was intrigued by them," he says. "Then I learned to work on them and I made it a career." Greg brings this lifelong love of cars to his business, which is located at 41 Park Avenue in Georgetown. According to Greg, the key to his Hyland's on Park's success is the team's attention to detail and focus on quality.

"When we detail a car, we get all the nooks and crannies," says Greg, who has been in the car business for 20 years. "I'm fussy and people know that. That's why we get repeat business."

When he isn't working, Greg is a familiar face at Halton Hills' many car shows, including the weekly Cruise Nights and the annual Classics Against Cancer Car Show on Father's Day, where he is often asked to be a judge and is able to interact with other enthusiasts.

"I'm a classic car guy. They have a lot of character and style," he says. "You've got to do what you like and this was a good pick for me. I don't think I'll ever get sick of it."

Georgetown Glass and Window Service

Dan Faubert wants to take the "pane & stress" out of broken windows. As the owner and operator of Georgetown Glass and Window Service, Dan is a glass guru who does everything from replacing broken window panes to creating custom-made glass for tables, kitchen cabinets and more.

Dan has years of experience in the glazier business, having started part-time as a teenager and working full-time locally for the last four years. Last month, he set out on his own and opened Georgetown Glass and Window Service.

The new business offers a wide range of services, including the replacement of thermal window units, the repair of old single-pane windows, the replacement of any broken hardware for windows and doors, the installation of frameless shower enclosures, as well as simple screen repairs and patio door servicing.

From the get-go, Dan has been committed to customer service and vows to return phone calls as soon as possible. He starts each job within a few days of getting the call and finishes each job quickly and efficiently.

"I provide service at it's best when you need it most!" he says.

Muttley Crew Dog Training and Daycare Inc.

Tom Allen has taken his love of dogs and turned it into a career. Tom is the owner and operator of Muttley Crew Dog Training and Daycare Inc., a Georgetown-based business that offers a variety of dog-related services, including training, walking and daycare.

Tom travels to his clients' homes so he can train the dogs - and their humans - in an environment in which they're most comfortable. He also uses his own home as a daycare and an alternative to boarding. The visiting dogs are treated as part of the family and are given the run of the house and the large backyard along with Tom's two dogs.

In addition to these services, Tom also helps people find the right breed of dog for their lifestyle.

"Too many dogs end up at the humane society because people don't know what they need," he says.

Tom meets with clients and conducts a detailed interview to learn how active they are, how often they're away from home and other information to get an overall view of their life.

"I'm not going to put a Golden Retriever puppy with somebody who's 75 years old," he says. "They might want an older dog that has already calmed down."

"People don't necessarily understand their pet and I want to help," he adds. "I want to help from the dog's perspective and I want to help people get the behaviour of their dog under control."
