

Accepting the challenge

Jacqueline Tanguay, 13, (left) and Breanna Rozon, 13, from Stewarttown Public School work on a straw bridge during the 17th annual Halton Engineering Challenge at Stewarttown. After months of design work, teams of Grade 8 students from both Halton school boards also brought robotic arms they designed with teachers and local professional engineers.

Transportation meeting goes tomorrow made by transit by 2031, with automobiles used 70 per cent of the time, and walking, bicycling and other "active transport" modes the remaining 10 per cent. In 2006, 5 per cent of peak period trips were made by transit and 2 per cent by active transport, according to the Region.

Council has also asked Regional staff to examine whether a Halton-wide transit system would be a useful endeavour. Currently, transit is handled by the local municipalities in Halton.

Even if council ultimately decides against a regional transit system, the Region's transportation master plan must accommodate provincial transit initiatives in Halton that are included in Metrolinx's The Big Move transportation plan for the GTHA.

Remaining public information centres will take place Tuesday, March 30 at Milton Sports Centre (Banquet Room), 605 Santa Maria Boulevard and in Oakville Wednesday, March 31 at Halton Regional Centre (Gymnasium), 1151 Bronte Road.
