Hundreds of past and present Robert Little Public School students flocked to the Acton school on April 17 and 18 to help celebrate a major milestone: its 150th anniversary. Known as Acton Public School until being renamed in 1952, Robert Little Public School marked the occasion with a benefit concert by Canadian folk singer Valdy, horse-drawn carriage rides, an open house, musical performances, the unveiling of the school's new sign and the grand opening of the Roots and Wings Hall of Memories. Here's to another 150 years of memories!
