

Out & About

A collection of photos from around town

Silver Creek Public School student Sarah Laurie (right) and her grade 6 teacher Liz Cook took a trip to Trendz Hair Studio where they each had 10 inches of hair cut off to donate to Locks of Love. Sarah inspired her teacher to join her in donating her hair after writing about it for a school assignment.

RIGHT: Halton Hills Christian School students Jonathan Petch, Emma Kalverda, Ryan Douglas, Chelsea Ensing, Chelsea Trudeau, Naomi Rowlinson, Helaina Van-soelen and Jade Dekleer help to beautify Halton Hills by picking up trash around Remembrance Park during the town's 22-Minute Makeover on Earth Day.

After cutting their hair to donate to Angel Hair for Kids, Limehouse Public School students Brenna and Aeryn Lediard joined vice-principal Carolyn Reist (left) and their mom, Tania (right), to present a cheque for $263 to Sheila Smith of Cancer Assistance Services of Halton Hills. The girls raised the money with the help of their classmates.

At her superhero-themed fourth birthday party, Martie Fletcher (left) decided to be a real heroine by asking her guests to make a donation to Cancer Assistance Services of Halton Hills (CASHh). Martie's mom, Kim (right), was recently diagnosed with cancer and relies on CASHh to get to and from her appointments.

RIGHT: Community Living North Halton (CLNH) members Ian (with head down), Jacob (centre) and Gloria (far right) present Douglas from the Halton Hills Public Library with a bookmark they made for him. Every month, volunteer Annette Mills (second from right) brings the group to the Georgetown library where Douglas reads to them.
