

Senior injured in fall Friday is looking for information

Penny called 911 and her mother was taken to the hospital where she remained through Sunday. She didn't suffer any broken bones.

Davis is home now, and seems fine except for the bruising and pain.

"I don't know if I passed out or tripped on something," said Davis, who was embarrassed by the incident and didn't want to be photographed. Her doctors would like to know what happened as well.

"I would like to know exactly where they found me, what I hit," said Davis.

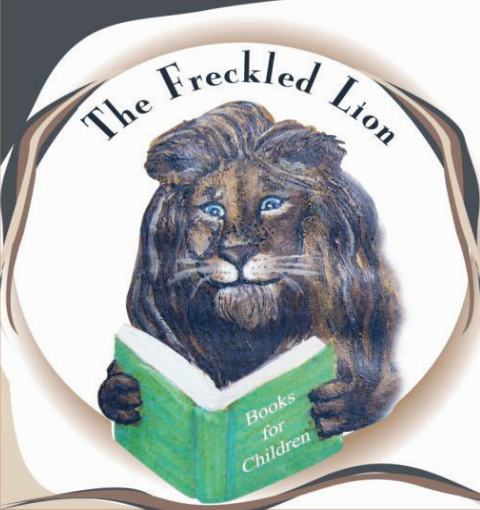

The men, or anyone else who may have seen the incident, is asked to call Penny at 647-519-0545.

Inglis thanked for cenotaph work

Longtime stone mason Gerry Inglis of Glen Williams (right) was recognized for his work on the Glen cenotaph last week, as he recently placed a stone cross on top and gave the cenotaph some much-needed refurbishing. Brett Giles presented Inglis with a plaque on behalf of the residents of Glen Williams. Inglis was honoured during last week's Candlelight Tribute ceremony.
