of any suitable media, can be handed in. These pieces will be hung in a suitable space in the gallery and adjudicated separately. The purpose is to allow for more creative expression outside "the box".

The date for the adjudication and celebration event will be announced later.

This spring and summer, Ariss will be involved with four to five solo shows including the second annual Children's Juried Art Show in June.

She is exhibiting in a Toronto gallery opposite the St. Lawrence Centre in June with other solo shows following in August and October. She is also participating in group shows, juried art shows and gallery exhibits in many places in the GTA and Ontario and outside of Canada.

Ariss has also had notable gallery success this year in Australia and Singapore, and now plans to do some painting in Singapore next winter.

Also, a result of her rising international success, the Symphony of Birmingham/England had selected one of Ariss-Stroh-Wasser's paintings as a cover page image for their program this year. Her black and white painting, called Piano Concerto for Left Hand was chosen. For more information go to www.ariss-stroh-wasser-art.com
