Safety demo

St. Joseph School children in Acton learned how to be safe around fallen electrical wires as Danny Pece of Electricity Safety and Conservation demonstrated to the kids various hazards in the house and around town. Using a model set-up, students like Paris Molinaro (left) and Laek Swain, learned how to get out of a car with fallen wires on it, or to stay away from wires when flying a kite. The demonstration/display travels to various schools throughout Halton Hills. Photo by Ted Brown

Boxed in

Cheque it out

Students who paid $2 to wear civvies at Christ the King High School May 6, collectively gathered $1,190.47 which they donated to the Canadian Cancer Society. On hand to make the presentation were (from left) Laura Liscio, Fundraising Co-ordinator for the Canadian Cancer Society, Lucy Gagro, co-chair of the Georgetown Relay for Life, CTK student Matthew Metcalfe, who dreamed up the event to raise the funds, and CTK principal Dave De Santis.
