I would
by no means
call myself

a professional photographer, more of an amateur. My love of photography started around 12 years ago when my daughter was born, during her first six months I shot thousands of pictures with tens of thousands more to follow. My first camera was an Olympus pocket-size digital, which changed to a Panasonic Lumix which very recently upgraded to an SLR Olympus E-620.

I love to photograph everything and anything, especially my children in action, sun rises/sets, clouds, trees, animals and all that Mother Nature has to offer.

I have had the honour of my work displayed and sold in a local gallery and I have won both honourable mention and first place in our local cottage association's yearly contests.

My photos are not altered in any way, I print how and what the camera sees.

You will always find me with a camera in hand, waiting for that memorable shot to be captured.

My photos are available for sale.
