Superior Glove donates $75,000 for Acton splash pad

Superior Glove of Acton owners and employees presented the Town of Halton Hills with a $75,000 cheque to go towards the cost of the $500,000 Acton Splash Pad, which is almost completed in Prospect Park. The splash pad will be named the Superior Glove Splash Pad after the longtime Acton company, which has been major contributor over the years to many community projects. Owner Joe Geng said his family and employees are proud to contribute and know that the pad will benefit young families of Halton Hills. From left: are Superior Glove employees Roy Bishop, Todd Schonnop, Lynda Rolfe, Councillor Mike O'Leary, Superior Glove owners Tony Geng and Joe Geng, Mayor Rick Bonnette, Councillor Clark Somerville, Superior Glove employee Jill Whalen, Councillor Jon Hurst, and Superior Glove employee Don Miller. The Town is targeting July for the opening of the splash pad. Councillor Jane Fogal, chair of the Litter-Free Task Force, also thanked Superior Glove for its annual donation of gloves to the schools to allow all the children to participate in the 22-Minute Makeover Day.
