

Hollow-inspired artist opens exhibit

Local artist Kailey Bryan returns for another solo art exhibition.

Bryan grew up in Georgetown, steps from Hungry Hollow, and attended Georgetown District High School where she participated in numerous coffee houses and local art shows, and received the Millennium Award for Visual Arts. She just received her Bachelor of Fine Arts from York University, and has returned to draw inspiration from the town's friendly folks, beautiful ravines and calming rivers.

She has partnered up with Evoked Emotions Gallery at 511 Guelph St. in Norval for an exhibition until Wednesday, July 14, with gallery hours every day from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. (closed Saturday, July 10).

A reception will be held Sunday, July 11, noon to 6 p.m. with refreshments, snacks, and painting demonstrations. See www.bryanart.ca or call 905-873-6067 for details.
