

Uncontrolled burn

Onlookers watch as a controlled burn, that got out of control, engulfs a vacant barn on Fourth Line, north of Five Sideroad Tuesday. Halton Hills and Milton Fire Departments personnel responded and let the fire burn itself out while making sure it didn't spread.

Police seek public input with survey

Halton Regional Police Service is inviting the public to help shape its future business plan.

Police are seeking public input through an anonymous online survey, available at www.haltonpolice.ca.

The survey is designed to gather information about safety priorities police should be focusing on, which will be reflected in their 2011-2013 Corporate Business Plan. The four themes included in the current business plan are community safety, communication and dialogue, organizational capacity and organizational excellence.

The confidential survey consists of 15 questions regarding the current business plan, which gauge residents' support of the themes, any refinements or additions to the plan's goals and any suggestions residents have to help achieve the goals.

The survey is the latest part of an extensive public consultation process for the new business plan, which also included public focus groups earlier this summer.

To complete the survey visit www.haltonpolice.ca and click the 2011-2013 Corporate Business Plan link on the homepage under "In The Spotlight."
