

Local dancers to represent Canada at Worlds

Georgetown dancers Julia Bonifacio, Abigail Dillon and Alyssa Gibbons will be representing Canada in the World Dance Championships in Riesa, Germany this November.

The girls were chosen from hundreds of hopefuls who auditioned across Canada for Blake McGrath of So You Think You Can Dance. The style of dance they will be performing in Germany is called Showdance, an energetic and theatrical style of jazz.

Abbey and Julia, both 12, and Alyssa, 15, dance at Center Stage School of the Arts and are on the competitive team there. The girls train in ballet, jazz, tap, acro, lyrical and hip hop. All three are also accomplished soloists with many medals and special awards between them.

The first rehearsal for the Canadian National Dance Team was on Sunday, Sept. 12 and the girls worked hard to prepare for their goal of winning a gold medal for Canada.

There will be a fundraiser for Alyssa this Sunday, Sept. 19, from 4-7 p.m. at Shoeless Joe's in Georgetown. For more information, please contact gabriele.stohr@hotmail.com.

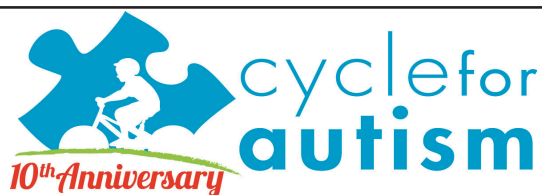

The girls will also be holding a bottle drive and other fundraising activities and asking for sponsorship from local businesses to help them pursue their dream.
