ATTENTION

HIKERS AND USERS OF THE BRUCE TRAIL

The Bruce Trail is a public footpath entirely built, and maintained, by volunteers for the purpose of protecting the Niagara Escarpment, the most significant landform in southern Ontario.

The Trail runs from the Niagara River to Tobermory and passes through the Towns of Milton, Halton Hills and Caledon.

The Bruce Trail is a footpath. Bicycles and motorized vehicles are not allowed except in some very limited areas. This applies to both the main Trail (marked with white blazes) and Side Trails (blue blazes). There are three compelling reasons for this: owners' wishes, safety and ecology.

More than half the Trail is on private land with the permission of the landowner. This permission is for a hiking trail only. Use of the trail by motorized vehicles or bicycles could cause the landowner to require removal of the Trail from his land.

The Trail has many bends, twists and steep hills. Sharing it with bicycles or vehicles is very dangerous. Our priority is the safety of hikers so that they don't have to worry about what is coming around the next bend.

Bicycles and vehicles have negative ecological effects along the Trail. They damage plants and animals and create much more erosion than the boots of hikers.

To summarize, the members of the Bruce Trail Conservancy respectfully request that everybody refrain from using bicycles or motorized vehicles on the Trail.
