

Walter Used To Eat Frozen Dinners Alone

Now he enjoys a varied menu and great company

Mealtime was mostly a chore for Walter. Living alone, he would simply choose what was easiest to prepare and eat it in front of the TV. Nutrition was rarely a consideration.

At Chartwell, the chef changes the menu daily, so Walter not only gets to choose from a variety of balanced meals, but he enjoys them with a side dish of laughter and conversation.

'Green' report pleases councillors

"This is a terrific report," said Halton Hills Mayor Rick Bonnette, commending its author Szybalski. "This is exactly what we have been asking for."

He said Meadows in the Glen development currently being built in Glen Williams already paved the way in town with many environmental initiatives, "we're hoping all the other developments in Halton Hills will follow suit."

"This report warms the cockles of my heart," said Councillor Joan Robson. "I received a comment from someone on Credit Valley Conservation saying Halton Hills is light years ahead of surrounding municipalities when it comes to environmental issues."

"This is a great stride forward," said Regional Councillor Jane Fogal.

A recommendation in the report calls for water allocation for development be tied to completion and compliance to the checklist.
