Congratulations to the following persons/businesses celebrating special achievements:

The Georgetown McDonald's restaurant was selected as one of three in the GTA to be updated featuring new exterior and interior designs as part of McDonald's Corporation's plan to contemporize all of their restaurants across Canada.

The Georgetown McDonald's hosted a group of McDonald's executives and restaurant owner/operators from across Canada in June. They came to see the new design features of the restaurant including the new exterior, side-by-side drive through, flat screen televisions, comfortable seating and McCafé premium beverages. Owner/operator Tim O'Connor is proud that his Georgetown restaurant was selected; the increased customer traffic has shown him that this has been a worthwhile investment.

Since taking part in the HHWiB lunches and following the advice of the speakers, Fabia MacNair's website for Styling Spaces is being ranked No. 1 on Google for Home Stagers in Halton Hills. Although Styling Spaces is relatively new, they have helped more than 100 families make their homes more saleable. Styling Spaces has been noticed in the international staging world. A recently completed job allowed their client to earn an extra $80,000 on the sale of her home. Written up online, this story was picked up by the Wayne Lister of Interfab Steel Ltd. located in the Georgetown Industrial Park recently announced that he was retiring after many years in business. The property has been sold to another Georgetown company, Oxytech Industries, who specialize in high definition plasma cutting and machine services.

On her recent trip to Ottawa, the Queen unveiled a sculpture of the famous Canadian Jazz pianist Oscar Peterson seated at his piano outside of the National Arts Centre. The casting was done by Artcast Inc. at their Georgetown studio. Owner Eric Knoespel and his team of artisans take the work from the sculptor and use the "Lost Wax Process" to cast the figure in bronze or other metals.
