Building a Better Halton

Halton Region's 2010 construction season was our second largest ever, with more than $362 million spent on improving Regional roads and our water and wastewater facilities to serve you better. Our infrastructure construction plan is called Building a Better Halton.

As the weather gets colder construction will slow down, however Building a Better Halton won't. Public consultation is an important part of the planning process for proposed construction projects. Every public comment we receive helps us to understand what people are concerned about and how to improve our plans.

To help keep residents informed about Building a Better Halton we've created a web page at www.halton.ca/construction, which provides construction and meeting updates.
