

Keep your loved ones smiling...

If you drink, DON'T DRIVE!

Even now, despite the ever increasing number of public awareness campaigns, drunk driving is frequently at the centre of horror stories involving families across Canada. In fact, nearly all Canadians have heard or read at least once over the last year, a story about a drunk driver having hit a child, an innocent bystander, an ordinary person. It is more than ever the time to learn some lessons from these terrible experiences.

DRINK OR DRIVE, BUT NEVER BOTH!

You've been invited to a family evening where drinks will be flowing freely or to a Happy Hour with your work colleagues? These are, without doubt, occasions when you could really have a lot of fun. But don't kid yourself; it's highly likely that you won't be in a fit state to drive by the end of the evening. Add to that the difficult driving conditions we can encounter during the winter and you've got a good recipe for disaster... Happily there exist a whole range of options to avoid driving under these conditions.

There is, of course, the designated driver system as well as many organizations, especially during the holiday season, which will pick you up and drive you home in your own car, as safe as can be.

Don't put your life or other people's lives in danger. If you know you're going to have a few drinks, don't take your car. Don't become a statistic or headline news by committing an illegal act that can destroy so many lives.

Drinking and driving can be a deadly cocktail.
