

in my world:
water is worry-free

Revolutionary water treatment systems that are good for you and the environment

ENJOY THE BENEFITS OF KINETICO WATER
IN YOUR HOME

 Kinetico® water systems

PURCHASE A WHOLE HOME WATER SYSTEM

— AND — RECEIVE A FREE

DECHLORINATOR*
INSTALLED

OR

NO INTEREST
AND NO PAYMENTS

12
MONTHS
O.A.C.

Kinetico Central

toll free 877.601.9501

Monday - Friday 9:00am - 5:00pm

Ask about our Rural Whole Home Special

*Model 1060 Reg Value $1100.00

www.mykinetico.ca

ABOVE: Bernice Fogal, Grace Hassall and Doris Barnwall warm up at the church.

BELOW: Volunteers Mackenzie (left) and Abby (right) Matthews take a break to visit with Santa.

Kinsmen Kevin Mulcahy (left) and Ron Stiel get festive.

Bernice Nichols and Florence Corbett catch up with Grant and Alice Greenaway.

Dozens of local seniors climbed aboard buses and headed off into the night on December 8 for the Kinsmen Club of Georgetown's annual Seniors Tour of the Lights. After checking out local Christmas light displays, the seniors headed over to the Salvation Army Community Church in Georgetown South where they enjoyed coffee, tea, egg nog, baked treats and entertainment from the church's band and singers. Thanks to the Salvation Army Community Church, Major Renée Clarke, and the Kinsmen and Kin families for a great night!
Photos by Andrea Lefebvre

ABOVE: Official "light plugger inners" Jane Fogal, Santa and Gerry Kentner look on in wonder as the lights turn on in Dominion Gardens Park.

LEFT: Harrison Public School students Amy Campbell, Brooklyn Harroun and Hannah Sheppard strike a pose on stage.

BELOW: Dylan, Claire and Marie Cudmore get to know Gingy (Shannon Mitchell) and Tree (Chelsea Blum).

The choirs were singing, the crowds were cheering and the lights were twinkling at the Light Up The Hills Ignition Night on December 1. Hundreds of people braved the cold and flocked to Dominion Gardens Park in Georgetown and, new this year, the Acton Sports Park to see the lights turned on for the first time this season. Local school choirs came together to lead the crowd in Christmas carols and everyone warmed up with free hot chocolate and cookies from Tim Hortons.
Photos by Andrea Lefebvre

