Region eyes different methods to ease Trafalgar Rd. congestion

Adding turn lanes and rumble strips are a couple of things Halton Region has up its sleeve to ease congestion and improve safety on Trafalgar Rd. in Halton Hills.

About 50 area residents came out to a public meeting at the Civic Centre recently to hear what the Region has planned for the stretch of Trafalgar between Steeles Ave. and Hwy. 7 over the next few years.

The goal is to get traffic flowing better, reduce speeding and improve overall safety.

Planned improvements that come with a preliminary price tag of $3.2 million include:

- installation of left and right turn lanes at intersections (Five and 10 Sideroad)
- localized widening of Trafalgar Rd. to four lanes north and south of Five and 10 Sideroads
- signal timing optimization
- speed display boards
- oversized speed limit signs
- peripheral transverse bars
- median islands
- rumble strips along the edge of the road
- improved signage
- improved pavement markings

Halton Region Senior Transportation Coordinator Nick Zervos said the intersection and road improvements would be completed in two to three years, and the other items could be completed this spring and summer.

Zervos said speed was one of the biggest concerns of those who came out to the first meeting focusing on Trafalgar Rd.

"The simplest thing is to reduce the speed limit," said Zervos. "But lowering the speed limit on arterial roads doesn't work, you can't change driver's behaviour by lowering the speed limit."

Brian Malone, Project Manager of CIMA+ which did the study for Halton Region, said the goal of the improvements is to "allow existing traffic to move through more efficiently."

The rumble strips are planned to be installed along the north and southbound lanes of Trafalgar from Steeles Ave. to 15 Sideroad.

"They provide a tactile and auditory warning to drivers of roadway departure," said Malone.

Coming north and southbound to Five and 10 Sideroad drivers may come across optional tactile (rumble) strips to alert them they are
