Missing the big event

stopped at the barn and walked into the dimly lit stable. It was 1:40 a.m.

The lamb was about 10 minutes old.

The Sidekick was annoyed— she'd just missed it. Looking at the little lamb, I guessed there was second lamb.

We waited, and finally, the second lamb's feet appeared, then its tiny nose, the ears, and finally, after a hearty push, mother ewe pushed out her second lamb.

As we fell into bed at 3 a.m., The Sidekick was exuberant. I was exhausted.

But in spite of the exhaustion, there's an indescribable emotion one feels seeing lambs being born, as they struggle to stand, and then take those first steps.

And anyone who sees a lamb being born feels quite privileged to have witnessed it.

HEARING SCIENCES

Audiology and Hearing Aid Centre

We change personalities!

There is a transformation that takes place when people are fit with hearing aids. Withdrawn people become a little more outgoing and socialize more. Quiet people start to talk more because they are confident that they will hear the responses to their questions. Loud people start to talk more softly and listen more. People recover their sense of humour and start to make jokes. People that were judged as aloof become friendlier when they hear people greeting them. Most people would rather not talk than answer incorrectly and be perceived as unintelligent. Hearing aids change all that. Take the first step to a personality make-over and book a hearing test.
