

The Montessori experience has famous graduates

Parenting, Thursday, February 24, 2011

Famous people that have had a Montessori education include Google co-founders Larry Page and Sergey Brin, Prince Harry and Prince William, Amazon founder Jeff Bezos, famous World War II diarist Anne Frank, chef Julia Child and actor George Clooney.

Mommy and Me programs have been incorporated into The Village Montessori which seem to be so popular that a new Prenatal Montessori program is also being offered. These eight-week sessions give you an insight into the benefits of the Montessori philosophy and how you can provide a Montessori enriched environment for your child in your own home.

Three-year-old Rheanna Silva has fun working with the counting beads.

This summer the school are offering an affordable Summer Camp program which is going to encompass the Montessori philosophy giving the children some academics but also focusing on summer fun! It will include sports, cooking, science, nature etc.

The staff at The Village Montessori believe all children will benefit from a Montessori education. If you are interested in any one of our programs, please feel free to drop by the Registration Open House on March 30 from 5:30 to 7 p.m. If you can't make it, call the school at 905-877-0097 or call Kim McMahon at 416-919-4473. The Village Montessori is located at 533 Main Street in Glen Williams.

Georgetown Kumon students honoured for academic work

The Kumon Math and Reading Centre of Georgetown recently held its annual Student Achievement Awards Event at St. Andrew's United Church.

The event is dedicated to recognizing the hard work, dedication and success of students ranging from pre-school to high school, while inspiring and motivating them to continue to strive towards their academic and personal goals.

"Each student at the centre has done something truly remarkable," said Instructor Rosalie Scarlett. "For many of the children, the result has been better grades in school, but we're also celebrating other accomplishments such as improved study habits, independent learning skills and self-confidence, all of which are going to help them succeed not only in school, but throughout their lives."

Each student received a personalized award as recognition of their successes throughout the past year. Students who finished the year on the Advanced Student Honour Roll (given to those who attempted challenges a minimum of one-year above their current school grade level) were given awards, as well as those who reached milestone and anniversary achievements.

Scarlett says that even though she is the one who guides them on a daily basis, she learns a lot from her students as well.

"The success these students have experienced is inspirational," said Scarlett. "It has been and continues to be an honour to be a part of their journey. I offer my sincerest congratulations to each of my students for their success."
