Lions Hall was filled with the delectable aroma of maple syrup and bacon on April 9 and 10 when the Georgetown Lions Club hosted the second annual Lions Breakfast Weekend. The delicious meal – which included pancakes, ham, eggs, bacon, toast, juice, tea and coffee – was free to all diners who brought a donation for the Georgetown Bread Basket food bank. Over the course of the weekend, the Lions served more than 400 breakfasts and collected 3,000 pounds of food and more than $1,400 for the Georgetown Bread Basket. Good food, good company and a good cause – what a great way to spend a weekend morning!

The Acton Curling Club was pretty in pink on April 2 when curlers and curling fans came together to raise money for a good cause: the Weekend to End Women's Cancers. In addition to four four-end games, Curling for a Cure participants were treated to breakfast, lunch and dinner, a silent auction and prizes. The daylong event, organized by Mitch Jewell, raised $7,000 for his team's participation in the Weekend to End Women's Cancers. Good curling!

Neurological Rehabilitation and Physiotherapy

Neurological Rehabilitation is an area of Physiotherapy in which a therapist with advanced training works with people who have suffered, or suffer from, conditions and/or impairments of their neurological system. Specifically, they treat people with Multiple Sclerosis, Cerebral Palsy, Parkinson's Disease, General Movement Disorders and those who have endured a stroke or brain/spinal injury.

Our brains are highly adaptable and with the proper physiotherapy they can re-learn and compensate. A process called NEUROPLASTICITY actually allows the brain to "re-map" itself and find new ways to do things. Recovery can continue to take place over a period of years.

A Physiotherapist with advanced Neurological Rehabilitation training will work with patients to stretch and strengthen muscles, overcome spasticity and tremors and improve balance and walking patterns. They may also introduce aids to help the client improve their quality of life and become more independent.
