MYAC Youth Recognition Awards...

Justin Gilbert

Justin is a student at Georgetown District High School who is passionate and excels in his work in the performing arts. He has numerous years of experience in performing arts stage management and always maintains a high level of quality in his work. He volunteers many hours to many different performances and has proven to be a natural leader, mentor and positive role model for his peers. Even dealing with stressful situations on and off stage, this individual demonstrates a positive and calm attitude due to his dedication to his work.

Arielle Vetro

Arielle is an active and diligent student at Christ the King Secondary School. She is the secretary for Student Council and an active member in both the junior and senior bands. This youth is a member of the Intermediate Reach Team and student Life Association within her school and has excelled in her academic studies and commitment to her school.

In her spare time she teaches preschoolers ballet lessons and has a true passion for creative dance.

at Christ the King Secondary School. The trio were important in the planning and delivery of a special concert at their school. The event was called Sonar2Voice and the purpose was to spread the word about marine biodiversity and for the preservation and protection of dolphins around the world. There was a guest speaker from the Earth Island Institute arranged and Seneca College is creating a documentary on the concert.

These three youth demonstrated, passion for the cause, creativity, leadership, adversity, and determination to ensure the event was a success.

Dan Marshall

These two award recipients are students at Christ the King Secondary School who volunteer their time in the Best Buddies Programs, a program for students with disabilities. These youth participate and assist participants in the program, planning trips and community outings for the participants and assist with the life skills program. Their inclusivity, compassion, dedication, and caring personality are essential for the success of the program but are natural characteristics for the youth. They have proven to be role models for their peers and the participants in the program as well as positive influences in our community.

Maeve Sharkey

Maeve is a student at Christ the King Secondary School who demonstrates leadership and confidence through her community and school involvement. As an active member of student council and the arts community, this individual has a strong passion for international affairs and global justice.

Through her excellence in academics and religion, this youth was nominated to attend a Global Awareness Conference in Washington D.C and will be attending an international relations and business course in India, China, and England this summer.

Zac Gazdik

Zac is a student at Georgetown District High School who has been nominated for inspiration. As an active member of the Maple Avenue Youth Group, he plans activities to keep youth in the community engaged and he encourages peers to help out in local food drives, to volunteer, or to become involved.

This student recently travelled to Brazil to build a community centre for local residents. Along with his inspiring contributions to his church and community, this individual is involved in the Peer Assistance Program at GDHS and has a talent for Architectural Design where he entered the Halton Hills Technical Olympics with a proposal for a bus shelter for students at his high school.
