Oh baby, it feels like summer!

It took a long time to get here but it appears good weather has moved into southern Ontario and Georga Simpson, 10 months, found the best way to beat the heat Tuesday was a visit with mom to the Dominion Gardens splash pad. The pad opened on Victoria Day weekend but became very popular this week as temperatures soared.

Murder charge withdrawn against Acton man

An Acton man is looking forward to getting on with his life after a second degree murder charge against him was withdrawn in court.

Eddie McGuin, 47, was facing the charge in connection with the Jan. 6 death of Rick MacLeod, 49, of Acton in a Mill St. W. apartment.

Halton Crown attorney Brian O'Marra said there had been further investigation into the incident, including seeking further opinion on forensic pathology in the case.

"The cause of death may not be attributed to what had gone on between the accused and the deceased," said O'Marra.

McGuin's lawyer Brendan Neil said the charge was withdrawn because "the cause of death was completely unrelated to Eddie or any action he might have taken that night."
