

Glen educator receives special award

Many people in Halton Hills know Don Ablett as a neighbour and friend in Glen Williams, while others know him as a musician and have enjoyed his music over the years.

Some may also have read articles he's written for Sideroads magazine. But few know Ablett as a high school principal, at Judith Nyman Secondary School in Brampton.

Ablett was recently awarded the 2011 Principals of Music Award, a national award recognizing his contribution to the music education community.

The Coalition for Music Education and Ticketmaster Canada presented the award to Ablett at Judith Nyman Secondary School, June 6.

"The award acknowledges the important role school principals play in creating the necessary balance of conditions required for school music programs to flourish," said Mary Ann Frattia, a member of the board of directors for the coalition.

"By recognizing these individuals we hope that other principals will be encouraged to take a fresh, creative and dedicated look at their music and arts programs across the country and support them so that these programs and all students can thrive."

Ablett is one of three principals across Canada to receive this award. Each principal receives a $2,500 grant from Ticketmaster Canada for their school. The award is made in honour of the late George Bishop, one of the founders and first executive director of the Coalition for Music Education in Canada. Ablett was selected from more than 160 applications.
