

Sheridan Nurseries and Region offer water use contest with big prizes

Halton Region and Sheridan Nurseries invite residents to pledge their commitment to reduce outdoor water use this summer for a chance to win one of three Wise Outdoor Water Use prize packages as part of Halton's Outdoor Water Use Program— Know Your Colour, Know Your Limits.

Even though the spring season has been filled with rain, it is still important to be mindful of outdoor water use as it only takes a few hot days filled with resident lawn and garden watering to increase the demands on the Region's water distribution system.

The Wise Outdoor Water Use Contest runs until July 15 and the grand prize is valued at over $3,200 and includes an At-Home Master Landscape Design Plan for gardens that feature drought tolerant plants from Sheridan Nurseries and more!

"During the summer months water consumption often doubles making it important to take steps to reduce your outdoor water use such as decreasing lawn watering, planting drought tolerant plants with mulch and using a rain barrel," said Halton's Regional Chair Gary Carr. "By taking a few simple steps to conserve water during the summer months we can ensure that emergency services like firefighting have an adequate supply of water."

Contest prize packages include: Grand

Prize (valued at over $3,200): An At-Home Master Landscape Design Plan from Sheridan Nurseries, a $2,500 Sheridan Nurseries Gift Card towards the purchase of drought tolerant plants, a copy of The Canadian Illustrated Guide to Green Gardening and an Outdoor Watering Toolkit.

Second prize (valued at over $1100): In-Store Landscape Design Sketch from Sheridan Nurseries, a $1200 Sheridan Nurseries Gift Card towards the purchase of drought tolerant plants and an Outdoor Watering Toolkit.

Third prize (valued at over $900): In-Store Landscape Design Sketch from Sheridan Nurseries, a $750 Sheridan Nurseries Gift Card towards the purchase of drought tolerant plants and an Outdoor Watering Toolkit.

"Sheridan Nurseries is excited to be a part of Halton's second Wise Outdoor Water Use Contest," said Sheridan Nurseries President Karl Stensson. "Sheridan has many expert designers who are able to help residents with the planning and development of a drought tolerant, water efficient garden."

St Francis of Assisi Grade 7 students Sierra McEwen, left and Alex Hughes were among the cast members of 'What a Knight', a comedic musical set in the time of Camelot, in which Watt Cobblers (Hughes) is expelled from knight school and becomes Merlin's apprentice, while Princess Lisa Lugabout (McEwen) has similar problems, and ends up working with the cook. When King Arthur's sword Excalibur goes missing, it's up to Cobblers and Lugabout to save the day, and the fate of Camelot.

Peter Doucette & Jennifer (Oxford Auction)

For Oxford Auction owner Peter Doucette and assistant buyer Jennifer, honesty is the best policy.

Peter, Jennifer and the staff at Oxford Auction travel around the country buying precious metals like gold and silver and selling them back to the refiners. The Oxford buyers pay top dollar by weight for a variety of gold and silver items, like jewelry, knick-knacks, trophies and even teeth.

"We're probably one of the highest-paying road shows out there," Peter says. "And we're honest. If someone comes in with something they think is 10 carats but it's actually 14 carats, we'll pay them the 14-carat rate."

Before visiting a buyer, Peter recommends that customers do their research. Learn about the items you want to sell and find out the current rate for gold and silver, he says.

"I wish people would educate themselves so they don't get taken advantage of," Peter says. "There are all kinds of different guys out there right now, so do your research before coming to see me or anyone else."

Although the business is based in Ingersoll, Oxford buyers come to Halton Hills a few times each year.

"We have a good little following in Georgetown," Peter says. "It's one of our better towns that we go to."
