The Hooligans win place in Festival

The Toronto Sketch Comedy Festival presented its fourth annual "Sketch-Com-Aggedon" recently, showcasing 45 troupes competing to win cash prize and an automatic entry into the Sketch Comedy Festival in November.

DYT Productions Performance Studio's teen Improv/Sketch Troupe, The Hooligans and won audience choice for the evening with a five-minute sketch.

Hooligans members include Georgetown residents Alyssa Strachan and Erich Knoespel.

After five days and 45 adult troupes competing, The Hooligans were crowned the winners of "Sketch-Com-Aggedon", twice being named the audience's choice.

The Hooligans made history as the first teen troupe to ever win the competition and get automatic entry into the Noember 2011 Sketch Fest.

The Hooligans were created in 2007 upon the formation of DYT Productions Performance Studio. The troupe is made up of nine teens, ranging in age from 15 to 18 years old.

The Hooligans have made news in Brampton for hosting shows at The Rose Theatre, as well as their talked-about sketch revues at The Second City Toronto and The Comedy Bar.

This Brampton-based group will be looking for some new blood this September! To book your audition time please contact Kristine Marchese, Executive Director of DYT and Producer of The Hooligans, at 416-712-2749, or email dytps@dytproductions.com

Summer Festival kicks off in Hillsburgh

Summer Festival 2011 opened at Century Church Theatre, Hillsburgh, on July 13. Three classic comedies by award-winning playwrights promise plenty of laughter.

"We like to do comedy in the summer, because our audiences want to come and relax and have fun," says Artistic Director Neville Worsnop. "But when we choose a summer comedy we also look for a play that has some substance — interesting characters, and a thought-provoking story, something that the audience can identify with, and talk about afterwards."

Sir Alan Ayckbourn, author of the opening play, Confusions, is well-known for his unorthodox plot twists and deeply human characters. Confusions tells five interlinked stories all dealing with human eccentricities, and the hilarious and sometimes ludicrous situations that can arise.

Five versatile actors play 21 different roles as the action moves through many genres of comedy, from sit-com to pithos to outright farce.

Directed by Jo Phenix, the play stars Jill Peterson, Frank Rempel, Patrick C. Smith, Wendy West, and Neville Worsnop, and runs July 13-24.
