Firefighters serve for Georgetown Hospital

Rachel, Jenn and Brody Spencer enjoy the beautiful weather on the patio.

Halton Hills Firefighters put down their fire gear and picked up a tray on lovely June evening when they worked as servers at Kelsey's to raise money for the Georgetown Hospital. The friendly firefighters carefully made their way through the packed Georgetown restaurant with trays of food and drinks, much to the amusement of the diners. After a delicious meal, customers checked out a fire truck, tried on bunker gear and took photos with Sparky. One hundred per cent of the servers' tips and 10 per cent of the sales were donated to the Georgetown Hospital Foundation. Good food, good company and a good cause: what a great way to spend a Wednesday night!
