ROSE THEATRE PRESENTS
summer theatre
Season 2011

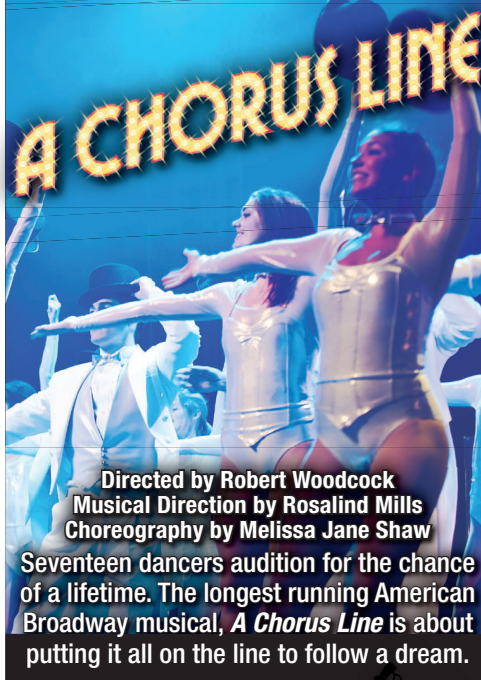

CLOSING WEEK

Directed by Robert Woodcock
Murder, espionage... Monty Python?
That's The 39 Steps. A madcap thriller packed with non-stop laughs, over 150 zany characters (played by a cast of 4!) and some old fashioned romance.

JULY 8 - 30
STUDIO THEATRE • $27

CLOSING WEEK

Directed by Robert Woodcock
Musical Direction by Rosalind Mills
Choreography by Melissa Jane Shaw
Seventeen dancers audition for the chance of a lifetime. The longest running American Broadway musical, A Chorus Line is about putting it all on the line to follow a dream.

JULY 22 - 30
MAIN STAGE • $32

Library can help navigate eBook world

At the Halton Hills Public Library, books are a big part of our business—but this doesn't mean we only have books printed on paper.

Since October 2009 we have had a collection of electronic books, or eBooks, available for all of our library card-holders to borrow, just like you would borrow regular books.

EBooks are certainly taking the publishing industry by storm. Just this past February, the American Publishing Association reported that eBooks have begun to outsell paperback books in the United States.

But, if you have never read an eBook before, getting started can be a bit of a challenge—you can't just walk into your local library and grab one off the shelf. So, if you have never read an eBook before, how do you go about trying them out?

The Halton Hills Public Library would like to help.

Starting this month, you can borrow an eReader just as you would borrow a regular book. Each eReader is preloaded with 21 bestselling and newly-released eBook titles. You don't need anything else, not even a computer. You can request an eReader by searching our library catalogue (keyword = ereader) and placing a hold, or you can contact us at 905-873-2681 or 905-853-0301 and we will place the hold for you.

If you already have your own eReader and would like to learn more about eBooks, our Technology Made Simple Program will be investigating eBooks throughout the month of August. There will be a presentation on everything you need to know to use our eBook library, The Ontario Library Service Download Centre, on August 5 from 2-4 p.m. at the Georgetown Branch.

If you would like some extra practice or if you have questions, there are hands-on, drop-in sessions from 2-4 p.m. on August 12 at the Acton Branch and on August 19 at the Georgetown Branch.

To find out more about our eReader lending program or our Technology Made Simple Program, visit your local branch or the library website at www.hhpl.on.ca. And for regular updates on new library programs, services and events, follow us on Twitter or come find us on Facebook. We'll have you "eReading" in no time!
