

Nurse Next Door franchise to service Halton Hills area

With nearly 13 per cent of Ontario residents above the age of 65, the local home care market is poised for a great deal of growth.

To address the needs of this rapidly growing demographic, Nurse Next Door Home Healthcare Services, has launched two new local franchises serving the Southern Ontario region, including Halton Hills.

Nurse Next Door, Canada's fastest growing in-home senior care franchise system, will operate in Guelph and Kitchener but will also serve the Georgetown, Acton, Milton, Cambridge and Waterloo areas.

Owned and operated by Andrew Doney, the locations address the healthcare needs of local seniors by providing a viable alternative to long-term care facilities.

"With these new Nurse Next Door franchises we are able to help ensure local seniors receive high quality care in their own homes," says Doney. "We want to take the time to educate families and show them that caring for aging family members can be affordable at home."

With current resources across the region stretched, these new local franchises will help to alleviate the burden placed on existing care options by providing the same or greater level of care from the comforts of the client's home.

"It's pretty clear that our hospitals and care facilities are facing very serious challenges," adds Doney. "We're here to help address this issue and improve the level of care local seniors can expect."

The Nurse Next Door locations will all provide full spectrums of in-home care services ranging from three-hour per week companionship to 24-hour, round-the-clock nursing care. These services help individuals who have a variety of professional care needs live happy, healthy and at home.

Nurse Next Door Home Care Services operates 46 locations across North America and is dedicated to delivering responsive, caring, and high quality home healthcare services.
