Community Open House

Think there's nothing to do in Halton Hills? Think again! More than 60 local sports groups, community service groups, art guilds, music societies, theatre companies, fundraising committees, social service groups and other non-profit organizations gathered at the Georgetown Market Place on October 15 for a Community Open House. The groups were on hand to showcase their services and encourage local residents to get involved, which fit with the event's theme: Passion, Action, Impact – Find your Passion, Take Action and Make a Lasting Impact. With so many great groups in town, you can stay busy all year!
