

The Ghostbusters keep an eye on the ghosts and ghouls in Acton.

Sydney Weaver is a scary sight as the Bride of Frankenstein.

HALLOWEEN IN HALTON HILLS

ABOVE LEFT: The Mario Brothers (a.k.a. Colin Robertson and Gavin Hogue) had a great time trick or treating in Acton.

ABOVE RIGHT: Ghostbuster Dalton Thompson protects Downtown Georgetown.

ABOVE: Four-year-old Connor McBride musters up all his courage and ventures up the steps of MacKinnon Funeral Home where a witch and warlock hand out goodies.
BELOW: Two-year-old Claire O'Neil flies high in the bouncy castle in Georgetown.

Acton and Georgetown were crawling with ghosts, ghouls, superheroes, fairy tale characters, animals and other fantastical sights on October 29 when the two downtown business areas hosted their annual trick-or-treat celebrations. The day started in Downtown Georgetown with the annual Masquerade on Main where costumed kiddies went from store to store collecting treats. The fun continued in Acton at the Trick or Treat on Mill and Main Street, which drew crowds of families to the downtown core.
