Herb Ciceri's Acoustic Circus returns to Knox church Jan. 27

Herb Ciceri's Acoustic Circus is back at Knox Presbyterian Church for a new multi-media music and visual presentation on Friday, January 27th at 7:30 p.m.

Those who were at last year's show will remember Ciceri, playing keyboards and the pipe organ, Charlie Finlay on the saxophone and percussionist Ray Kingsmore.

They have added acoustic bassist Scott Kemp who has played music halls and jazz festivals across Canada, the USA, Europe and Asia and who Don Thompson calls "a fine musician with the potential to become an important contributor to our Canadian jazz community."

They will play an eclectic show ranging from the Beatles to Ray Charles to Pat Metheny with a few old favourites being added. Also Ciceri will play the pipe organ. This will be done against a background of video and still images.

This, once again, promises to be another entertaining, fun evening for all ages.

The show is on Friday, January 27th at 7:30 p.m. at Knox Presbyterian Church, 116 Main St. South, Georgetown.

Tickets $15 at the door or through the church office, 905-877-7585.

We are extremely delighted by the incredible response Birkdale Place has received from Milton and the surrounding communities.

Here are some of the comments we've been hearing from the many who have toured:

"We just can't believe how beautiful this residence is - and yet the prices are excellent - and I've compared!"

"I'm very relieved that so many services are included in my monthly rate - even assistance with Mom's medications, and if she needs more care later, I have confidence in the staff to provide it."

"I came out of interest in the building, but I booked because you made me feel my Dad will be treated very specially."

"You seem to be a very caring group - we feel we can really make a home here."
