The Holy Grail of the National Hockey League – a.k.a. the Stanley Cup – was in Georgetown on December 30 as part of the Georgetown Minor Hockey Association's 75th anniversary festivities. Lord Stanley's Mug was on display at the Halton Hills Sports Museum & Resource Centre on the final day of the annual Bob Goldham Memorial Christmas House League Tournament, which featured teams from all of the GMHA's house league age levels. Players, coaches, families and hockey fans lined up for a chance to see the Cup up close and have their pictures taken with it.
