ARTS and CRAFTS

at the Georgetown Market Place

Local youngsters had the chance to get crafty on March 14 when the Georgetown Market Place held a make-your-own-button craft corner. Kids were tickled pink, blue, yellow and green to sit down and create their own customized design with markers and pencil crayons. They then took their paper to the craft co-ordinator, who, with a wave of her magic wand, transformed the design into a button that the kids could proudly pin on their clothing. This crafty event was part of the Georgetown Market Place's March Break activities.
