Town joins heritage tour

Halton Hills has joined the 2012 Doors Open Ontario tour.

Fifty-seven events across the province comprise this year's program. From April until October, heritage buildings, cultural sites and other interesting venues will be open- free of charge- for public viewing.

The theme for Doors Open 2012, "Defending a nation," commemorates the bi-centennial of the War of 1812 and the locations, events and persons connected to the defence of our province and country. Doors Open participants will uncover the stories of early inhabitants who faced invasion during the War of 1812 and learn about other heroic war efforts from the past 200 years. A diverse range of defence-related sites will be open to visitors, such as battlefields, military fortifications, armouries, armament manufacturing facilities, legion halls, commemorative monuments and peace gardens.

The season kicked off in Guelph on April 28 and the Halton Hills events will be held Sept. 29 and 30.

A total of 11 sites in Halton Hills will be part of the program: Acton Town Hall, Cedarvale and Community Centre, Devereaux House, Georgetown Lawn Bowling Club, Hungry Hollow Trail, MacKinnon Family Funeral Home, Moorecroft House, The Georgetown Armoury, Remembrance Park, St. Alban the Martyr Anglican Church and St. John's Anglican Church.

Four other new communities have joined Doors Open this year along with Halton Hills: Georgian Bay, Quinte West, Algonquin Highlands and Lambton County are hosting events to tell the stories of their local heritage.

The new Doors Open Ontario website—www.doorsopenontario.on.ca— allows visitors to pinpoint specific site locations and to plan their event itinerary. The site's interactive calendars, "my favourites" folder and social media tools allow visitors to enhance their Doors Open experience.

Since its launch in 2002, it has grown from 17 events to a record 57, representing hundreds of communities and thousands of individual heritage sites. When the 2012 events conclude in October, the program will have generated more than 4.5 million visits to 5,000 sites across the province. Out-of-town visitors will have spent an estimated $23 million in Ontario's communities.

Trails Open Ontario, part of the Doors Open program, encourages visitors to explore Ontario's 88,000 kilometres of walking, hiking and cycling trails. Participating trails can be discovered in the Doors Open Guide and on the Doors Open website. Call 1-800-ONTARIO (1-800-668-2746) for a free copy of the guide.

Visit www.doorsopenontario.on.ca for more information about each community.
