Trail, boardwalk and bridge opens in Hungry Hollow

Halton Hills Mayor Rick Bonnette and members of Council were on hand to celebrate the new trail, boardwalk and footbridge that link the Dawson Crescent and Miller Drive neighbourhoods in Hungry Hollow.

With a total project cost of $142,000, the project provides a long awaited link across Silver Creek.

Built between November-December last fall by contractor R&M Construction from Acton, the new 17-metre bridge spans Silver Creek. Contractor Grade Control from Glen Williams built the trail and boardwalk leading up to the new bridge.

The 300-acre ravine in the middle of Georgetown contains hundreds of different plants and close to a hundred species of birds and some important fish habitat leading to the Credit River.
