tFML to hold preview show of Placid Ends

The Failed Magician's League (tFML) theatre group is offering two preview shows of Placid Ends at Mothballed Beginnings (also known as Placid Ends), at the Georgetown Little Theatre Studio, 33 Stewarttown Rd.

The play by local actor/playwright Ian O'Brien has been selected as one of two National shows to be showcased at the Fringetastic Theatre Festival in Nanaimo, B.C. in August.

The first show will be on Friday, July 27, 8 p.m. and will be a "Donor/Sponsor Only Schmooze and Dine" appreciation evening. If you have donated your time or money towards getting the cast to B.C., you are invited.

"It will be a great evening to promote your business and your passion for the arts," says O'Brien. "A talk back with cast and crew will follow after the performance."

The second preview show will be an open to the public pay-what-you-can performance on Saturday, July 28, also at 8 p.m. This is your chance to come out and see what all the buzz has been about. Warning: Violence and strong language.

Placid Ends At Mothballed Beginnings has been garnering reviews from across the Halton and Peel region. It is O'Brien's oldest play, started when he was 17 and ultimately finished in his first year of theatre school. Winner of multiple awards at the Sears Drama Festival, three pairs of people and their god inhabit an area of space as close to nowhere as possible. They suffer and mourn in chilling isolation, in the end wholly aware that the world is not but a cycle of detriment and loss, played out to the tune of the divine.

In their ongoing efforts to raise money for the trip, tFML will be hosting an evening of poetry on Saturday, July 21, at 8 p.m. It will take place at 5 Mill Pond Dr. in Stewarttown. Come out, lend an ear, or read some of your favourite poems. Direct any poetry entries to dontcutmeinhal@gmail.com. A friendly reminder, this is a fundraising event, and the tFML penny drive is still ongoing. Put them to good use, before they're useless.

Meanwhile tFM's winner of the "Moonglow: Placid Ends" Image Raffle has been drawn and the winning ticket is ticket number 899284; it was most likely sold at the Georgetown Farmers' Market. If you have won this autographed Jonathan Travis image complete with picture booklet, contact either tFML at dontcutmeinhal@gmail.com or Travis Images at <http://www.artmajeur.com/travisimages/>.

The prize must be claimed by August 3, as it is travelling with the talented cast and crew on their journey out to Nanaimo, B.C. as part of the Fringetastic! Theatre Festival. It will be given to the winner after the group's triumphant return.

Doborovich wins silver and a scholarship

By TED BROWN
Staff Writer

When Thomas Doborovich was five years old, and began to play the piano, he probably didn't always appreciate the fact his mom Kathy, a teacher in music theory, piano and flute, encouraged him to spend hours practising at the piano.

But as the 17-year-old recently brought home a silver medal from the prestigious Ontario Music Festivals Association (OMFA) 2012 Provincial Finals, it was all worth it— and that's not counting the $400 scholarship that accompanies the medal.

The competition, held in Peterborough in mid-June, saw Doborovich representing Peel at his level, in a competition that began with 32 competitors which were eventually reduced to four.

THOMAS DOBOROVICH

At that point, the four final competitors were requested to play two pieces of music, as the adjudicators scored them.

"I was not expecting to win," said Doborovich. "There is such a high calibre of talent at these competitions— to get there, they (competitors) must have won at two local festivals to qualify."

"Now I think I know what it must feel like competing for American Idol," joked Doborovich, "as we had a play-off for the final placing."

Winning the silver provincial level is as far as Doborovich can go at this point, since there is no competition for his level at a national level.

Doborovich's musical talent is not limited to the piano. In addition to his Grade 10 Theory with the Royal Conservatory of Music, he also plays saxophone.

When asked about his post-secondary plans, Doborovich says he will pursue academics, using his music as a means to an end.

"It's what I do best, and it's where I have the most potential," said Doborovich. "Music instills a discipline and I can hopefully use that talent as a stepping stone to lead me to other professions."
