

B2C gives back to the community

Doug Keenie (left) president of Cancer Assistance Services of Halton Hills (CAShh) accepted a cheque for $4,000 from Matthew Hill, president of the Georgetown Business to Community (B2C) group who all personally donated to raise the funds. GeorgetownB2C.com is in their third year and boast 27 members. Last fall they held a raffle that raised $8,965 for Blake Smith's (C&S Printing) medical costs, and this year the group volunteered for Classics Against Cancer Car Show. The B2C group meets every Wednesday morning at Ares restaurant, downstairs in the banquet room at 7 a.m. Check online at www.georgetownb2c.com

Town installs bench for The Gallery seniors

When Town of Halton Hills Mayor Rick Bonnette (left) paid a visit to The Gallery at Bennett Village to speak with residents last year as part of his speaker series, they suggested that a park bench at the corner of Princess Anne Dr. and Halton Hills Dr. would be a welcome rest stop for those getting out to do some exercise. The Town recently installed a bench to the delight of Gallery Residents' Advisory Association secretary Inga Lavoie and president John Lenz. At right is Craig Nicolucci, supervisor for the Town's Works Dept. & Infrastructure Services.
