

Nobody's Perfect opens this week

Nobody's Perfect, by Simon Williams and directed by Jo Phenix opens at the Summer Festival, August 15-26, at Century Church Theatre in Hillsburgh. Lenny's (Trevor Smith Diggins) novel wins a competition but he has led the publisher, Harriet, (Linda Spence) to think he is a woman. When he falls hopelessly in love with her Lenny gets drawn into a mammoth deception and his rascally father (Wayne Moore) and devious teenage daughter (Logan Barbosa) make life even more complicated. Greidanus and guests featured in finale

On Tuesday (August 21), local pianist Ronald Greidanus with special guest musicians will offer the final chamber concert in his summer series.

RON GREIDANUS

This musical soiree will feature music for solo piano, Brahms' Rhapsody in B minor, as well as his highly energetic and rarely performed Quintet for Piano and String Quartet in F minor.

of Georgetown Bach Chorale performances, Carol Gimble on viola, graduate from Rice University in Viola Performance and Amy Laing on cello, who performs regularly with orchestras and ensembles in the Canada and abroad.

The Quintet is a huge work, typical of Brahms' symphonic-like textures; wonderful Germanic themes, lush harmonies and driving persistent rhythms are heard through out the entire work.

Due to the size of group and largeness of the 9-foot grand piano, seating is limited in the Greidonian Salon at 157 Main St. S., in Georgetown.

Following the 8 p.m. concert a delicious menu of Germanic-based entrees will be served, so come with an empty stomach.

The string quartet will feature Mary Beth Brown, concert master of Sinfonia Toronto, Elyssa Lefurgey-Smith on second fiddle, no stranger to local audiences having played concert master in a number Tickets, $45, can be purchased Food-stuffs, 89 Main St. S. or by calling Greidanus, 905-873-9909.
