

Turner supports local affordable housing bid

Giving his support to an affordable housing project in Georgetown, Halton-Peel MP Garth Turner wrote to Minister of State (Housing) Alan Redway, Halton Hills Council was told Monday. In his letter Turner asked Redway to consider making the Halton Hills project eligible for grants equal to those in the Metro Toronto area. Builders of the Carruthers Rd. project in Georgetown found that grant money being offered by the province wasn't enough to cover land purchase and construction costs. However, if higher grants, equal to those awarded to Toronto's affordable housing developers, were given in Georgetown the project could be completed.

Scouts hold triathlon

Asking for Halton Hills council's permission, Halton Region Scouts Monday announced plans to hold a canoe, cycling and running triathlon May 6.

Council, however, declined to give its nod of approval until after receiving a report ordered Monday from the Town Recreation and Parks Department.

According to the letter read by council, organizers hope to have 100 canoes or kayaks traversing the Credit River from Cheltenham to the Glen Williams park where tents will be set up to serve as change rooms and washrooms.

Recreation book here

The Spring/Summer '89 Recreation and Parks Department booklet is now available. A copy was inserted into last Wednesday's Acton Free Press and Georgetown Independent. If you did not receive a copy of the booklet, put out by the Town of Halton Hills, call this newspaper at 877-5266.

many (people) believe possible. Van Louwe said Acton is included in what is known as the Toronto II area. Grants are determined by what is known as the Maximum Unit Price (MUPs). In Acton up to $108,000 can be spent on a two bedroom townhouse-style unit. A three bedroom townhouse may cost up to $116,000.

Neither Halton Non-profit Housing Corp. secretary Stan Barkovitz, or president Walter Mulkewich were available to comment before deadline Thursday.

But, Halton Hills Mayor Russ Miller did go on record saying he is aware of the project and that he supplied a list of 10 sites to the Regional Non-profit Housing Corp. Miller added that a report on the development will be placed before municipal council Monday night.

Two doctors charged with licence offence

Two Georgetown doctors are scheduled to appear in provincial court this month on charges of operating an unlicensed specimen collection centre. They have been charged by the Ontario Ministry of Health with operating and maintaining a specimen collection centre in April of 1988 and September without the authority of a licence.

The allegation comes under Section 63 (3) of the Laboratory and Specimen Collection Centre Licensing Act.

Unlocked cars entered

Four unlocked cars in Georgetown were entered sometime in the wee hours Sunday.

Three of the four were parked at addresses on Prince Charles Dr., the other on Windsor Rd., according to police.

Missing items from the cars include about 20 cassette tapes, one pair of sunglasses, two cases of pop, and a wallet containing $10 in Canadian Tire money, a driver's licence, credit card, and identification. Police say total value of the items missing is about $206.
